

2021 Report to Yearly Meetings

Dear Friends,

Our Quaker faith and practice call us to work for the peaceful, just, equitable, and sustainable world we seek. Since 1943, the Friends Committee on National Legislation has carried on this witness of the Spirit through action on Capitol Hill. Here are just some of the highlights of this year's work, made possible by your advocacy, engagement, and financial support. Advancing the World We Seek, in a Year Shaped by Crises

The COVID-19 pandemic shifted both how FCNL works and the urgency of our advocacy to heed God's call to care for people who are vulnerable. Thanks in part to our efforts, COVID-19 relief legislation will cut child poverty in half this year and increase food assistance.

The need to adapt in a pandemic also led to new opportunities. A record 700 people joined in our Annual Meeting, nearly half attending for the first time. At that gathering, General Committee members approved legislative priorities for the 117th Congress, a budget that builds on FCNL's strong financial footing, and revised bylaws to allow Friends to be considered for General Committee service regardless of immigration status. Meanwhile, online gathering gave FCNL valuable opportunities to be in community with Friends and offer a new level of trainings and support to Quaker meetings, churches, and gatherings across the country.

This year also brought a crisis for U.S. democracy and faith in our government. FCNL is nonpartisan, but we are not neutral about the harm caused when our government pursues racist, nationalist, and militaristic ideologies and practices. The January 2021 attack on the U.S. Capitol was only one manifestation of the challenges to our democratic system. FCNL continues to pursue accountability, truth-seeking, and deep listening as we work for change.

The murders of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, and so many other Black Americans by police gave new urgency to FCNL's work on racial justice. Between two major FCNL lobby events, more than 1,000 people advocated to end police violence. FCNL advocacy helped restore access to Pell grants for incarcerated people and launch new initiatives to address the crisis of missing and murdered Native women. Internally, we began an intensive focus with staff and governors to address systemic racism and white supremacy as it manifests in our organization.

FCNL also helped move forward efforts to end support for violent conflict and to make peacebuilding a priority. President Biden's decision to end support for the Saudi-led war in Yemen is the culmination of years of tireless advocacy by FCNL and our allies. An extension of the New START agreement with Russia continues limits on the number of deployed nuclear weapons in each country, building on FCNL's lobbying to build bipartisan support for the agreement.

A Tumultuous January. Military presence, barricades, and tension were long-lasting reminders of the January 6 insurrection at the U.S. Capitol, leading up to and beyond the inauguration. Photo by Stephen Donahoe/FCNL.

And efforts to repeal the 2002 Authorization for the Use of Military Force moved forward, thanks in large part to the work of more than 1,500 people on FCNL Advocacy Teams around the country who use their power as constituents to make change in Washington.

FCNL continues its decade-long work to press for bipartisan action on climate change. We are heartened by executive actions that led the United States to rejoin the Paris Climate Agreement and advance environmental justice initiatives.

We will build on this progress toward a sustainable, low-carbon economy as we bring on a new class of young adult Advocacy Corps organizers this summer, who will focus on building bipartisan support for a price on carbon. They will need your partnership, support, and accompaniment in this work.

Our Strong Community

Advocacy Teams members are just some of the many people who enrich FCNL's work with their time and commitment. We are grateful for the nearly 200 Friends, representing 32 Yearly Meetings and Friends organizations, who govern FCNL as General Committee members.

We look forward to welcoming Friends to take part in the Friend in Washington program when travel is again safe; we benefit immensely from the seasoned Friends who volunteer on a short-term basis on specific projects and contribute to the spiritual richness of FCNL.

We also recognize the dedication of the people taking part in our Young Adult programs—as Young Fellows, Advocacy Corps organizers, interns, and Spring Lobby Weekend participants.

Reopening Friends Place on Capitol Hill

The FCNL Education Fund assumed responsibility for ownership and operations of the William Penn House, a guest house on Capitol Hill, in September 2019. (The House continues to be a separate 501(c)(3) charitable organization with its own budget and governance.) We anticipate reopening the space and launching educational programming and advocacy trainings in the coming year.

Recognizing William Penn's history as an enslaver, the William Penn House board approved changing the venue's name to Friends Place on Capitol Hill. With this change, the board affirmed the need to continue reckoning with Quakers' complicity in slavery and racism and to use the facility in service of challenging and dismantling the foundations of white supremacy.

A Bittersweet Transition

FCNL General Secretary Diane Randall has announced she will leave FCNL at the end of 2021. For the past ten years, Diane has fostered FCNL's growth and strength among Friends and on Capitol Hill. When she became the first woman to lead the organization, Diane told us that FCNL "must be bold, strategic, and relentless." Today, we are that and far more.

FCNL has begun a search process to select the next General Secretary. We hope to bring a candidate to the General Committee for approval at Annual Meeting in November 2021.

FCNL's work in the year ahead will be full of challenges and opportunities, both politically and organizationally. We are grateful to have a strong foundation on which to build. Thank you for your prayers, participation, and support, and—above all—for your faithfulness.
